

FAVOR SAN JUAN NATIONAL PARK

Scientists Return from Expedition Praising Wonders of Southern Utah.

WILL PETITION CONGRESS IS AN IMPORTANT WORK

WOULD PRESERVE VALLEY FOR ARCHAEOLOGICAL RESEARCH.

The first scientific expedition of the American Archaeological Institute among the archaeological wonders of southern Utah has been successfully accomplished. Professor Byron Cummings, secretary of the Utah branch of the institute, and the Rev. Mr. Eddy of the Unitarian church of this city, two members of the exploring party, have returned. They are enthusiastic over the prospects of achieving the main purpose of the expedition, that of making of the San Juan valley a national park in which the wonders shall be preserved forever.

The party made careful maps of the famous region, indicating the situation of the chief prehistoric remains and examined to some extent the nature of the remains. This information will be submitted to the national congress which will probably take steps to set aside the tract as a national park.

Will Make Another Trip.

The members of the party separated widely after their work had been done. The two engineers of the party, Fred Scranton and J. C. Brown, dropped the party to go to mining at Moab in Grand county. Professor Cummings, Mr. Eddy and Niel Judd, draughtsman for the expedition, turned north, traveling five days from "the bridge" by team to reach the railroad. Professor Hewett, secretary of the national society and conductor of the expedition, went to Colorado to supervise the work of a group of Harvard students who are studying the archaeological remains in that state. He will later lead an expedition into the field from the Denver branch of the institute.

A second expedition into San Juan county to study more carefully the remains there will no doubt shortly be made.

IT ONLY SEEMED WARM

Dr. Hyatt Insists Weather Was Cool Yesterday—The Record for July Shows Lots of Sunshine.

On the street yesterday it was warm enough to make the oldest settler turn to his scrap book and begin a tale of the blistering days of his boyhood. But in the weather office in the Dooly block Dr. Hyatt bared his head to the breeze that was assisted by an electric fan and pointing to the daily record insisted that it was fairly cool. The maximum for the day was 87 degrees, which is 8 degrees lower than the year's record, but humidity was in evidence again and made the heat seem oppressive.

For those that felt the heat yesterday there is some consolation in the prediction for today. Local thunder showers are promised by the wizard of the weather office. Yesterday in Salt Lake the maximum as stated before was 87, with the minimum of 70. July managed to make itself acceptable to Salt Lake after a bad start. On the 22d the record mark for the year was posted when the official thermometer registered 95 degrees. Several times after that the mercury hovered about this point, but did not exceed the mark of 95. The mean temperature for the month was 75 degrees, 1 degree cooler than during July 1906. Twenty-two days with eight partly cloudy and but two cloudy ones, gave the amusement resort owners an opportunity to reap a harvest. But with this large amount of sunshine, the lowest temperature for the month was 52 degrees on the 16th. Salt Lake was dryer during July this year than since 1903. The total precipitation for the month was but .19, as against .23 for 1906. And nine thunderstorms visited the city during the month at that.

FREIGHT RATE SESSION ENDS

Trans-Missouri Association Completes Work in Salt Lake—Application of Brewers Heard.

The application of the brewers in Salt Lake to have freight rates on beer reduced was considered by the Trans-Missouri Freight association yesterday afternoon. For nearly an hour representatives of the brewers argued before the delegates that the present tariff was almost prohibitive. No definite answer was given the brewers, but their request was taken up in the executive session that followed, and it is understood that the new schedule which will be presented to the interstate commerce commission will have a slight reduction for the brewers. The petition of the stationers and paper men was again taken up yesterday and discussed for some time. At the first meeting the request for a reduction on the freight rates for paper was refused, but was brought up again for further consideration.

Grievances of other shipping interests were taken up and most of the delegates left Salt Lake last night, having completed nearly all the business before them. No public announcement of the result of the deliberations will be made until the new tariff schedule has been presented to the interstate commerce commission.

ENGINEER GIVES PAIDING GIGRES

Kelsey's Estimates of Cost on Extension No. 32 Aggregate $83,123.

IS AN IMPORTANT WORK

ABUTTERS' PORTION OF COST AMOUNTS TO $52,733.

Estimate of Cost.
Abutters' portion.
Grading, curbing and guttering and paving with asphalt, Main from Brigham to North Temple streets, 70-foot roadway, $12,529.60
Grading, curbing and guttering and paving with macadam, Main from North Temple to Second North streets, 60-foot roadway, 6,765.00
Grading, curbing and guttering and paving with macadam, Second North from Main to East Capitol street, 40-foot roadway, 9,265.20
Grading, curbing and guttering and paving with macadam, East Capitol street from Second North to Girard avenue, 30-foot roadway, 7,332.55
Grading, curbing and guttering and paving with macadam, Girard avenue from East Capitol street to West Canyon road, 30-foot roadway, 15,831.25
Total cost of abutters' portion, $52,733.75
Estimate of city's portion, $30,389.48
Total cost, $83,123.23

The city engineer yesterday filed with the city recorder the above estimate of the cost of what is known as paying extension No. 32.

On Jan. 28 the council ordered the improvement made and since that time the engineer has been working on the preliminary estimates. The delay is explained by the fact that the engineer has insufficient funds with which to hire a large enough office force and therefore has been unable to furnish the estimates required on time.

The extension has been demanded by the property owners for more than a year, and one of the most important of the improvements contemplated by the present "reform" administration as the section of the city through which it runs during a greater portion of the year is nearly inaccessible on account of the bad condition of the roads.

The work cannot be done or even advertised for this year as the administration is already overburdened with work and the citizens are overburdened with excessive taxes and assessments.

WILL TEST NEW SCHOOL LAW

Board of Education Ignores Statute Requiring Compensation for Absorbing Districts.

The board of education has decided to ignore the law passed by the last legislature requiring that when one district absorbs a portion of another it shall make an adequate financial settlement and also providing for a board of arbitration to settle the matter in case there shall be a dispute.

Recently the city took in part of the Granite district and secured the Waterloo school. The trustees of the Granite district claim that as a result the assessed valuation of their taxable property has been increased by one-tenth of one percent of their school property. They estimate the loss at $8,000.

The claim was presented several weeks ago, but the city board only offered between $5,000 and $6,000, and this was not acceptable. The board of arbitration provided for by the legislature and consisting of A. C. Nelson state superintendent, Brigham W. Ashton, superintendent of the Granite district, and D. H. Christensen, city superintendent, was then appealed to and a meeting called yesterday.

Mr. Christensen, after talking with the board members, failed to put in an appearance, and Nelson and Ashton went over the claims presented by the Granite board and probably will make the $8,000 award when the figures are verified.

It is the intention of the city board to then take the matter into the courts and test the constitutionality of the law under which the award is made. This attitude has caused considerable dissatisfaction among the school authorities, and the law was among a number of others passed to increase the efficiency of school administration by the state and county board harmony among the various districts.

FORESTS YIELD REVENUE.

Utah's Share This Year Amounts to $13,557.

Utah's share of the returns from government forest reserves will amount to $13,557.23, which is $4,500 more than last year. This information has been received by the board of land commissioners from the Washington land office. Each state is allowed 10 per cent of the returns of the forest reserves within its borders. The last legislature created a special fund for this money and apportioned some $3,000. A law was also passed giving the power of apportionment to the board of examiners.

SMOKE SUIT FILED.

Michael McMillan Sues U. S. Company for $7,448.

For alleged damage to his crops and land during 1904, 1905 and 1906, due to smelter smoke. Michael McMillan is suing the United States Smelting & Refining company for $7,448 in the district court. The plaintiff alleges that during this entire period mentioned practically all of his crops were destroyed by the noxious fumes from the smelter.

WANTS $10,000 FOR EYE.
Mike Vinjoms Injured by Blast in Columbus Consolidated.

For the loss of an eye due to the premature explosion of a blast in the mine of the Columbus Consolidated Mining company at Alta, April 9, 1907, Mike Vinjoms yesterday brought suit against the company for $10,000 damages.

He asserts that he was instructed by the foreman to ignite three blasts and that while at his work a fourth exploded, causing the injury.

Armed with seventeen stilettes, twelve razors and two revolvers, the man who robbed the Alcorn Hardware company's store at Bingham Junction Thursday evening is at large. Deputy sheriffs are looking for him.

Besides the defendant described the robber also has five dollar watches, two filled watch chains and three watch fobs.

WILD ANIMALS FINICKY ABOUT COLORS; GREEN HAS MOST SOOTHING EFFECT

"Wild animals have strong likes and dislikes for colors, kinds of music and people," said James Jay Brady, agent for Ringling Brothers, whose circus will be here next week. "The hyena, about the meanest thing on four legs, will almost jump out of its skin at the sight of purple."

"If you want to get a monkey to turning handspins and squeaking with rage, wave a combination of red and green before his eyes. An odd thing about this, too, is that he is partial to green alone—in fact most animals are. Certain shades of red, say scarlet, are most irritating to feline beasts."

"Green is a soothing color to wild animals. Just as it is to human beings. I have used green shades to get nervous creatures sleepy. It never fails. When I want to make big, fat, lazy animals like the hippopotamus and rhinoceros shut their eyes I sleep. I drag a piece of green balm around the cage, and the snoring chorus which follows shows that the green has done its work. Certain shades of red, say scarlet, are most irritating to feline beasts."

"A little girl with a scarlet hat or jacket will make a tiger hiss and snarl and roar until he is out of breath, and then most likely it will further show its rage by tearing at the steel bars of the cage until his gums drip with blood. The snoring attendants know this, and when a girl overshoots with scarlet, and near her cage she is told that the big show is about to begin or turned toward the don of baby wild animals."

"Bears don't like blue. They are grumpy creatures anyway. "Gray is a depressing color to lions. Probably this is because they are such sweet-heads. They are a good deal like leading men, and that is about the limit. They like blue and they don't mind red, but when it comes to gray their features hang as if they had had bad news from home. Black and white is a pleasing combination to lions and leopards. A Chinese flag makes them cranky. The lion, however, is not such a fierce fellow as some people try to make out, and his dislike for certain colors never runs into any extravagantly mean displays."

"The elephant, the grand old man of the menagerie, does not show much interest one way or another when certain colors are flashed before him. With him all colors look alike. It is a good thing for the black population that this is so, because when they get into their circus best, all the colors of the prism are hooked up. The camel is much like the lion in this respect. I have known a cross-grained one, though, to spit a mouthful of bran over a dress that looked like a running mate for the crazy quilt."

"The gentle giraffe is partial to soft colors. Certain shades of green, blue, brown and gray are to his liking. I have tried to find out if there was any one positive color that three giraffes in Ringling Brothers' menagerie preferred most, so far have been unable to prove anything like this to my satisfaction. You know the giraffe can make no sound, and it is as mild-mannered as a shrinking violet."

"A bovine species, like the buffalo, yak, sacred cattle, etc., snort and bellow when brought face to face with waving red. The tapir will turn tail and try to run from yellow and red. This probably comes from fear of the treacherous cat animals of his jungle home and the don of baby wild animals."

"Black panthers, which are only leopards in disguise, will snap and snarl ferociously at any solid color, but, strange to say, when the colors are combined they seem to look at the changes with interest and hardly open their eyes. Green their best natural color in the menagerie, and any natural shade of blue or gray is best for the uniform of an attendant."

BABE DROWNED IN DITCH

Body of Joseph Reed's Child Drifts About a Mile Before Being Recovered.

The infant son of Joseph Reed of Murray was drowned last night in a large irrigation ditch that ran past the house. The body drifted about a mile before being recovered. The child was missed about five minutes after he left the house. A searching party was quickly organized. The body was discovered near the old building alongside of the ditch, half submerged in the water under a large overhanging bush. A doctor was with the searching party and found that the little one had been dead over an hour.

ADA WILSON IS SUED.

Chauffeur Co-defendant in Suit Following Auto Accident.

Ada Wilson, who is considered a leader in the circles in which she moves, and her chauffeur, Bert Fox, were sued in the district court yesterday for $10,500.50 by David A. E. Thompson and Mary Alice Thompson.

From the complaint it appears that on July 17 the Thompsons were driving on Main street between Ninth and Eleventh streets when the Wilson automobile struck their rig and threw them out. Mrs. Thompson being severely injured about the body and 30 Thompson also was badly cut and bruised.

It is charged that the accident was due to the negligence of the Wilsons, who "lawfully and wilfully" permitted the auto to run into the buggy.

COUNCIL FAILS TO MEET.

Consideration of Sheets' Resignation Goes Over Until Monday.

The council was expected to meet last evening in special session to consider the resignation of George A. Sheets, chief of police. The term "incidentally" was used by the council, and one of the council members determined that Sheets' resignation shall not be accepted, but that he shall be considered as having resigned.

There was not even sufficient members present to hold any committee meetings. Mr. Christensen, after talking with the board members, failed to put in an appearance, and Nelson and Ashton went over the claims presented by the Granite board and probably will make the $8,000 award when the figures are verified.

It is the intention of the city board to then take the matter into the courts and test the constitutionality of the law under which the award is made. This attitude has caused considerable dissatisfaction among the school authorities, and the law was among a number of others passed to increase the efficiency of school administration by the state and county board harmony among the various districts.

ARRESTED AT SALT LAKE.

Edgar Dayton Found in Another Person's Bathroom.

Edgar Dayton was arrested last night at Salt Lake by Deputy Sheriff Burbridge. He was found in a bathroom that belonged to another person and he was apparently going through the pockets of the clothing in the bathroom.

Dayton had a bathroom opposite to the one in which he was arrested, and was occupying a bathroom next to this one heard him as he crawled over the partition and jumped to the floor. Some of the employees were notified and summoned Deputy Sheriff Burbridge. There was nothing found on him to indicate that he had stolen anything.

SAD DEATH ENDS LONG FRIENDSHIP

Companionship of R. H. Berrow and Thomas Gidny Is Closed by Suicide.

ACCUSES NEVADA SHERIFF

SAYS OFFICIAL GAVE HIM RAZOR TO USE IN KILLING HIMSELF.

R. H. Berrow, after suffering for two weeks from a cut in the throat inflicted by himself in Ely, Nev., while in a half crazed condition due to two days' exposure to the heat without food or drink, died early Thursday morning at the Holy Cross hospital. Berrow was brought to Salt Lake and cared for by Thomas Gidny, a street car conductor of Salt Lake, who for six years had been an intimate friend of the unfortunate man, and who was first to respond to the need of his companion.

The companionship of these two men, which was close to the last, began on board a ship which left England bound for America. They both came to Salt Lake, where they sought employment together. Their jobs separated them for the first time since their meeting. Gidny took a position in Salt Lake and Berrow worked at Bingham. He returned to this city, however, and went into the employ of Aberbach Bros. Here the intimate association of the two men continued.

About a month ago Berrow decided to go to Ely. His health had been poor and his friends advised outdoor work as a relief. He went to Ely and took a position with the Excelsior Wood & Pipe company. He was advised outdoor work as a relief. He went to Ely and took a position with the Excelsior Wood & Pipe company. He was advised outdoor work as a relief. He went to Ely and took a position with the Excelsior Wood & Pipe company.

According to the story he told to Gidny started out to find the camp and he lost his way. For two days he wandered on the desert near the Stentee valley, about fourteen miles from Ely, without food or drink. The heat was intense and many times he felt exhausted. Early in the morning of the third day he found a spring where he refreshed himself sufficiently to continue a little farther. He found a railroad track, which he followed. It led to a smelter. Here he cooked some food, but the exposure and the hardship he had suffered had made him demented. As he was a total stranger and his actions excited the smelter people they put him in the hands of the sheriff.

Says Sheriff Prompted Suicide.
Berrow tells a peculiar story about the wound which caused his death. He says that the sheriff called him into his office one day and giving him a razor, said: "My boy, you are in the way; you had better get rid of yourself." Berrow says he thought over the sheriff's advice and being in such a wretched condition, he cut his throat, severing his windpipe and hoping to kill himself.

The cutting happened while he was in the custody of the sheriff, but the only admission that he made was that he was in a rash act at the time. Berrow told him he was suffering from the mortal wound and still in a demented condition.

When Gidny heard the news of his friend's condition he gave up his job and went to Ely to get him. The meeting of the two friends was a happy one, and the hospital's facilities were not the best in Ely, so he brought Berrow to Salt Lake.

Berrow was buried yesterday afternoon. His relatives living here are a sister and a brother. He has a wife and a 3-year-old boy who live in Bingham.

LOVE'S ITINERARY LEADS TO THE MARRIAGE GOAL.
The city and county building has been the scene of so many romances this year that only a really, truly "surrealist" interesting looking couple can win a glance at that exclusive place these days. They came yesterday, though, and then won many glances from both employees and visitors. Their steps should have been in hand around the grounds, casting occasional glimpses at the upper windows, if they wished to be dared not approach a certain fascinating bargain counter on the fourth floor.

Finally they gained in courage, from having escaped molestation and they cautiously ascended the steps leading to the coveted counter. When they had reached the floor they ascended, examining all the inscriptions and carefully wending their way upward in quest of the promised goal. When they had reached the third floor two or three interested spectators were watching their movements, and as they retraced their steps to the stairway leading above, they reached the goal of all their dreams.

They stood a while deciphering the Greek over the door of the superintendent's office and decided that was not what they sought. Turning rather timidly they retraced their steps to the stairway leading above. Through the kindly offices of the elevator boy, who saw the secret and read the minds even before they had reached the top stair, they were directed toward the south, thence west and reached the goal of all their dreams.

CATARRH CAN BE CURED.
Kill the Germs by Breathing Hy-o-mei—Gives Quick Relief.

Many people who have suffered with catarrh for years naturally feel that the disease cannot be cured, and become discouraged.

Their failure to get relief is due to the fact that they have not used the right remedy. Catarrh is an affection of the head, throat and lungs, and cannot be cured by stomachics.

The only scientific and natural treatment for this disease is Hy-o-mei, which is breathed through a neat pocket inhaler, so that its healing properties reach the most remote air-cells, kills all catarrh germs, and restores the mucous membrane of the nose, throat and lungs to a healthy condition.

Hy-o-mei is the only cure for catarrh that has ever been sold with understanding that it was to cost absolutely nothing unless it cured. F. C. Schramm sells Hy-o-mei in this way, and F. C. Schramm is always ready to refund the money if it does not relieve and cure catarrh.

The healing and antiseptic balsams of Hy-o-mei perform their purpose to perfection, and by using this remedy for a few times each day you can soon cure yourself of any catarrhal troubles.

A complete Hy-o-mei outfit consisting of a bottle of Hy-o-mei and an inhaler costs but $1.00.

NEGRO ALMOST SEVERS LEG AND ARM OF Man in Fight on Franklin Avenue Over Woman.

Jealousy is supposed to have incited an attack made early yesterday morning upon Edward Praxton by William Brown, both colored men from Franklin avenue. Brown used a razor and nearly severed the other negro's left arm and right leg. Brown is under arrest and Praxton is in the hospital.

At the time of the assault, Praxton was with a woman. Brown is supposed to be in love with her. There was no warning for the injured man. Brown flew at him and used the razor with serious results. Brown fled after the cutting, but was arrested a few hours later by Detectives Raleigh and Shannon.

WIFE PREFERS TO BOARD.
This Caused All the Trouble Says Wilford Rynearson.
